- The Bible: Protestants believe that the Bible is the sole source of authority for Christian faith and practice. Roman Catholics believe that the Bible and tradition are both authoritative.
- Salvation: Protestants believe that salvation is a gift from God that is received through faith in Jesus Christ. Roman Catholics believe that salvation is a process that involves faith, good works, and the sacraments.
- The sacraments: Protestants believe that there are two sacraments: baptism and communion. Roman Catholics believe that there are seven sacraments: baptism, confirmation, eucharist, penance, anointing of the sick, holy Free Downloads, and matrimony.
- The role of the church: Protestants believe that the church is a community of believers who have been called by God. Roman Catholics believe that the church is a hierarchical institution that has been founded by Jesus Christ.

Hansen's Personal Reflections

In the third part of his book, Hansen shares his personal reflections on the differences between Protestantism and Roman Catholicism. He writes:

“ "I have come to believe that Protestantism and Roman Catholicism are two valid expressions of the Christian faith. Both traditions have their own strengths and weaknesses. Protestants have a strong emphasis on the Bible and personal faith. Roman Catholics have a strong emphasis on tradition and the sacraments. Both traditions have much to offer the Christian community." ”

Hansen concludes his book by calling for Protestants and Roman Catholics to work together to find common ground. He writes:

“ "I believe that Protestants and Roman Catholics can learn from each other and work together to build a more just and compassionate world. We are all Christians, and we all share a common goal: to follow Jesus Christ and to live out his teachings." ”
