Step back in time to Marietta, Ohio, the oldest city in the Buckeye State, where history and mystery intertwine. This charming riverfront town, nestled along the banks of the Ohio River, holds a rich tapestry of stories that will captivate your imagination and send shivers down your spine.

A Haunted Past: Marietta's Ghostly Encounters

Marietta's history is deeply intertwined with the supernatural, with tales of hauntings and paranormal activity that have been passed down through generations. The city's historic buildings and landmarks are said to be haunted by spirits of the past, eager to share their stories with those who dare to listen.

1. The Lafayette Hotel: A Haven for the Restless

The historic Lafayette Hotel, a cornerstone of Marietta's downtown, is renowned for its ghostly encounters. Guests and staff have reported seeing apparitions of former guests, hearing unexplainable noises, and experiencing unexplained temperature fluctuations. One of the most famous spirits is that of a young woman named Emily, who is said to haunt the hotel's third floor.

2. Mound Cemetery: Whispers from the Departed

Mound Cemetery, the final resting place of many of Marietta's early settlers, is a place where the veil between the living and the dead seems thin. Visitors have reported seeing ghostly figures wandering among the graves, and hearing disembodied voices whispering in the wind. One of the most frequently spotted spirits is that of a young boy named Johnny, who is said to have died tragically in the cemetery.

3. The Campus Martius State Memorial Museum: Echoes of the Past

The Campus Martius State Memorial Museum, housed in the oldest public building in the Northwest Territory, is said to be haunted by the spirits of soldiers who died during the Revolutionary War. Visitors have reported hearing footsteps and voices in the museum's exhibits, and seeing apparitions of soldiers in period uniforms.
