Chapter 4: Nullifiers of Islam: Actions That Undermine the Faith

Be aware of the actions that can invalidate the Muslim faith, including associating partners with God, witchcraft, apostasy, and consuming intoxicants. Learn about the consequences of these actions and the importance of adhering to the divine commandments.

In practice it undermines the transformation of faith. When Christians concentrate their time and energy on their own separate spheres and their own institutions—whether all-absorbing megachurches, Christian yellow-page businesses, or womb-to-tomb Christian cultural ghettos—they lose the outward thrusting, transforming power that is at the heart of the gospel. Instead of being 'salt' and 'light'—images of a permeating and penetrating action—Christians and Christian institutions become soft and vulnerable to corruption from within.
